

The Bantama School Project

This was formerly the Bantama Water Project but has grown. It started with Mrs Mackey's dad and friends being in contact with a pastor in impoverished Ghana. His village harvest cashew nuts by hand for export. Money was raised to buy a tractor for them. The work went on to provide a central water supply in the village so the people could drink clean water and the children would not have to walk to the river to collect water, instead of going to school.

Don't forget to do good and to share with those in need.
Hebrews 13, v.16

Now, the pastor is working to create a school for 100 local children. We are playing our small part by shipping out our old reading books for the children to use when learning English as a foreign language. Eventually we will 'twin' with them and become pen pals with the school children.

See, I am doing a new thing!
Now it springs up; do you not perceive it? I am making a way in the desert and streams in the wasteland.
*Isaiah ch.43 v.19
