

Whitfield St James' CE (VC) Primary School

Policy for Sex and Relationships Education (SRE)

We undertake to follow the principles in the Church of England Charter for faith sensitive and inclusive relationships education, relationships and sex education (RSE) and health education (RSHE).

DFE guidance, July 2020 states:

The Relationships Education, RSE, and Health Education (England) Regulations 2019 have made Relationships Education compulsory in all primary schools. Sex education is not compulsory in primary schools.

Primary schools should teach about relationships and health, including puberty. The national curriculum for science also includes subject content in related areas, such as the main external body parts, the human body as it grows from birth to old age (including puberty) and reproduction in some plants and animals. It will be for primary schools to determine whether they need to cover any additional content on sex education to meet the needs of their pupils. Many primary schools already choose to teach some aspects of sex education and will continue to do so, although it is not a requirement.

It is important that the transition phase before moving to secondary school supports pupils' ongoing emotional and physical development effectively. The department continues to recommend therefore that all primary schools should have a sex education programme tailored to the age and the physical and emotional maturity of the pupils. It should ensure that both boys and girls are prepared for the changes that adolescence brings and – drawing on knowledge of the human life cycle set out in the national curriculum for science - how a baby is conceived and born.

Introduction

This policy covers Whitfield St. James' CE (VC) Primary School approach to teaching sex and relationships education (RSE). This policy is undergoing thorough consultation with the whole-school community including pupils, parents/carers, staff and school governors.

Why teach SRE?

The aim of SRE is to provide children with accurate, age appropriate information, explore attitudes and develop positive values and skills in order to empower them to make positive decisions about their health related behaviour. This should take place with consideration of the qualities of relationships with particular reference to friendships, family relationships and relationships with other peers and adults.

In addition, SRE will promote self-esteem and emotional health and well-being and help them form and maintain worthwhile and satisfying relationships, based on respect for themselves and for others, at home, school, work and in the community. We do not tolerate any form of discrimination or bullying and challenge all reported incidents of homophobic or sexist discrimination.

“Schools should be alive to issues such as everyday sexism, misogyny, homophobia and gender stereotypes and take positive action to build a culture where these are not tolerated, and any occurrences are identified and tackled. Staff have an important role to play in modelling positive behaviours. School pastoral and behaviour policies should support all pupils.” (DfE, 2019)

In Sex and Relationships Education we aim to:

- Give pupils the knowledge and skills to recognise and manage risks and keep themselves safe, in real life and online

- Encourage pupils to develop a positive view of themselves and to respect others
- Respect difference and diversity
- Explore emotions, relationships and changes
- Help pupils recognise pressure in all its forms and have strategies to resist this
- Help pupils understand that they have rights over their bodies
- Offer all pupils a planned programme of education about human development, healthy relationships of all kinds, sexuality and family life which is developmental and appropriate to the age and maturity of the child.
- Provide opportunities for all students to learn appropriate to their needs
- Dispel myths, misinformation and prejudice

We use the following resources and when delivering RSHE:

‘Derbyshire County Council PSHE Matters’

‘Goodness and Mercy’ for Church of England Primary Schools <https://goodnessandmercy.co.uk/>

We will follow the guidance for sex education from ‘Goodness and Mercy’ for KS2 and deliver it to Year 6.

These methods may include whole class/small group/mixed gender group discussions, stories, role play, scenarios, puppets and videos but usually single gender groups are more appropriate and relevant. Class teachers are responsible for giving pupils the opportunity to discuss openly and honestly their feelings on a variety of social and emotional issues.

Occasionally, lessons may be delivered by outside agencies, (for example ChildLine and NSPCC). The lesson content will be discussed prior to the lesson and will be monitored by the class teacher and/or the SRE coordinator – Leo Ford.

Dealing with difficult questions

We always distance the learning so that children and staff do not feel pressured into sharing personal information if they do not wish to. Teachers will endeavour to answer questions as honestly as possible but if faced with a question they do not feel comfortable answering within the classroom, provision will be made to meet the individual child’s needs. Each class will have a question box available for children to ask sensitive questions. The teacher will then use their professional judgement to answer questions either as a whole class, small group or an individual child. (This box may also be used as a ‘buffer’ for teachers, if they feel they would like time to consider their answer to a specific question). Teachers will also encourage pupils to ask their parents/carers any question outside the planned programme and with the pupil’s permission, inform parents/carers about questions their child has asked. Staff will use agreed phrases, where appropriate, in response to difficult questions: eg. ‘That is something that may be covered later on, maybe at secondary school’, ‘I can’t answer that question, but you could ask your parents/carers.’

Parent Partnership

A positive relationship and communication between home and school is vital in the education of Sex and Relationships. The school informs parents when aspects of the sex and relationship programme are taught and provides opportunities for parents to view the resources being used.

Parents have the right to withdraw their children from those aspects of sex and relationship education which are not included in the National Curriculum Science programme of study and alternative work would be set.

Safeguarding / Confidentiality

Safeguarding underpins our entire curriculum.

SRE plays an important part in fulfilling the statutory duties all schools have to meet. The subject helps children understand the difference between safe and abusive relationships and equips them with the knowledge and skills to get help if they need it.

Children have the right to:

- Say no
- Respect their own body
- Speak out and know that someone can help

Teachers need to be aware that effective sex and relationship education, which brings an understanding of what is and is not acceptable in a relationship, may lead to the disclosure of a child protection issue or language/behaviours which are a cause for concern. If this happens, the staff member will inform the Head Teacher /Designated Child Protection person in line with the LEA procedures for child protection if there is a concern. A member of staff cannot promise confidentiality if concerns exist.

Right to Withdraw

- Relationships and Health Education is compulsory in all state schools at every key stage.
- -The National Curriculum for Science includes subject content in related areas, such as the main external body parts, the human body as it grows from birth to old age (including puberty) and reproduction in some plants and animals.
- At Whitfield St. James', the sex education objectives will be taught in accordance to the National Curriculum for Science and will also be addressed in the 'Goodness and Mercy' KS2 topics to Year 6, taught in ways appropriate to the age and maturity of pupils.
- -Sex education is not compulsory in primary school, however the DfE continues to recommend that all primary schools should have a sex education programme that is tailored to the age and maturity of the pupils.

However, parents have the right to withdraw their child from all or part of SRE by notifying the Headteacher in writing.

Created	Everyone is made in the image of God and therefore we should always treat one another as sacred and special, never as a thing or an object.
Frail	All people will make mistakes and are capable of disappointing us or worse.
Expansive	God wants us to work towards wholeness and towards reconciliation with others who let us down and who we let down. God calls us to live more 'holy' or 'God-supported lives'. Faithful	We should try to maintain our friendships and relationships so we have and can give support and joy through our lives. We should communicate to our friends and family through words and actions that we appreciate the love and care that they offer.
